scott bolzan

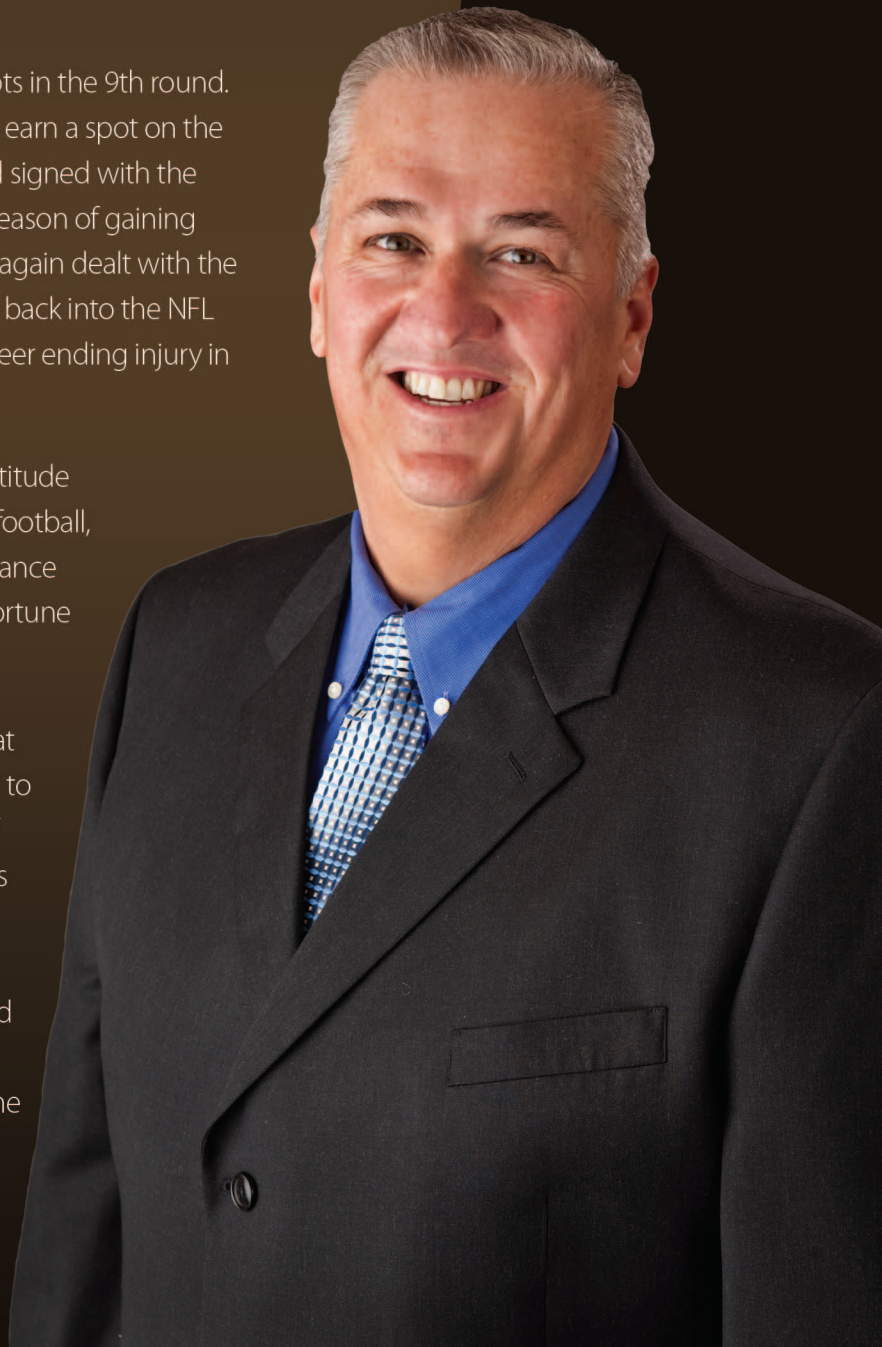

the man of 46 years whose life was deleted

Scott Bolzan has fulfilled the dreams of playing in the NFL becoming a professional pilot, and owning and operating a successful aviation company specializing in managing corporate aircraft.

In 1984 Scott was drafted by the New England Patriots in the 9th round. Like many rookies experienced, it was a daily fight to earn a spot on the roster, eventually he was released from the team and signed with the Memphis Showboats in the USFL. After enjoying a season of gaining much needed pro playing time experience he once again dealt with the life lesson of being released. This allowed him to get back into the NFL with the Cleveland Browns where he sustained a career ending injury in his second season.

These obstacles strengthened the "Never Give Up" attitude that allowed him to create himself in business. After football, successful careers in financial planning and the insurance business allowed Scott the opportunity to seek his fortune in his true love – FLYING.

In December of 2008 Scott suffered a brain injury that erased the memories of his entire 46 years of life due to profound retrograde amnesia. He has spent most of this year trying to rebuild his experiences and lessons of his previous life. Scott also serves on the Board of Directors for the Brain Injury Association of Arizona. Throughout this traumatic brain injury he has learned to persevere through adversity and remain hopeful and optimistic that he will reinvent himself to become an even better man than before.
